

Kenya

16 April – 8 May 2022

Rob Gordijn & Helen Rijkse (gordijnrob@gmail.com) - <http://www.penguinbirding.com>

Introduction

It had been too long since we had been to Africa, and since Helen did not visit Ethiopia, East Africa was the biggest gap in her life list. Kenya was a perfect destination for a three-week self-driving trip in April, with a great variation in habitats, lots of species and a nice set of endemics.

Itinerary

Day #	Date		Morning	afternoon	Night
0	16/Apr		Flight from Amsterdam	22.00 arrival Nairobi	Panari hotel Nairobi
1	17/Apr		7am get auto, drive to Tsavo East (Myani gate)	Tsavo East (Manyani gate to Ndololo campsite)	Tsavo East (Ndololo public Campsite)
2	18/Apr		Morning Tsavo East (birding towards Sala gate)	Drive to Watamu – Birding Sabaki river mouth	Watamu – A Rocha Kenya: Mwamba Field study centre
3	19/Apr		Arabuko - Sokoke	Arabuko - Sokoke	Watamu – A Rocha Kenya: Mwamba Field study centre
4	20/Apr		Arabuko - Sokoke	Arabuko - Sokoke	Watamu – A Rocha Kenya: Mwamba Field study centre
5	21/Apr		Fly to Manda	Fly back + river mouth?	Tsavo East – camping at Sala gate
6	22/Apr		Tsavo East	Taita Hills	Wundanyi - Taita Rocks Hotel
7	23/Apr		Taita Hills	Tsavo West	Tsavo West – Chyulu camp
8	24/Apr		Tsavo West	Driving	Thika – Blue Post Hotel
9	25/Apr		Short morning near Thika – Mt Kenya	Mt Kenya – Castle Forest lodge area	Castle Forest Lodge - campground
10	26/Apr		Mt Kenya – Castle Forest lodge area	Shaba NR	Shaba NR - camping at gate
11	27/Apr		Shaba - Williams Lark	Drive to Kalacha	Kalacha – Kalacha highway village
12	28/Apr		Kalacha	Samburu NR	Samburu public campsite
13	29/Apr		Samburu NR	Birding en route - Solio Ranch/Eagle Owl	Lalanasi Lodge (nyandarua county)
14	30/Apr		Aberdares (Shamata gate)	Baringo	Lake Baringo – camping Bush Bay Campsite

15	01/May		Baringo	drive to Kakamega	Kakamega - Rondo Retreat
16	02/May		Kakamega	Kakamega	Kakamega - Rondo Retreat
17	03/May		Kakamega - drive to Kisumu (2h)	Drive to Masai Mara	Masai Mara (Oololo gate) - Mara West Camp
18	04/May		Maasai Mara	Maasai Mara	Maasai Mara – outside Sekenani gate – Oldarpoi Mara camp
19	05/May		Maasai Mara	driving to Naivaisha	Navaisha - Sanctuary farm
20	06/May		Lake Naivasha	Kitangop – car trouble	Aberdares - Kipiri camp
21	07/May		Aberdares NP	Drive to Nairobi	Nairobi - Wildebeest Eco Camp
22	08/May		Nairobi NP	Nairobi NP	Flight at 23:59

The itinerary was somewhat fluid, in preparing for the trip we hadn't really decided on what to do with the long travel days (Tsavo to Mt Kenya, Shaba to Baringo, we hadn't planned on going to the Maasai Mara and the car breaking down meant we skipped Lake Nakuru but all-in-all this itinerary worked well. To shorten it we would advise to skip the Masai Mara and Nakuru/Navaisha & Nairobi NP. The western part can be done as a separate trip as well.

Most important species we tried for but dipped out on:

- Abbots Starling – irregular around Mt Kenya, we tried different viewpoints but failed
- Fire-fronted Bishop – irregular species following good rains and is sometimes seen in Tsavo or Shaba.
- Elgon Francolin – apparently quite rare in the northern parts of the Aberdares – we tried a site where Ross Gallardy had seen them in 2020 but didn't hear or see anything.

What would we do different in hindsight

Not sure what we would do differently, within the time-constraints this is probably still the most logical itinerary. An extra day in Arabuko Sokoke forest might be good idea. Our time in the Masai Mara was a bit short, and due to car trouble we skipped Lake Nakuru altogether.

Other birders

We met no other birders (!) during this trip.

Practicalities

Guiding

We used local guides at a few spots and got contact details of a few more, contact details are at the site descriptions below. But most of the birding we did ourselves.

Literature & Apps

We did almost all the birding with apps (Merlin, African Bird Club app, Birds of East Africa) so the paper book stayed in the car. For navigation we used maps.me and sometimes Google Maps. This worked out quite well, but not a 100% of the time (as usual you cannot blindly trust navigation in remote areas). For finding campsite/places to sleep we also use the iOverlander app – especially the reviews that people leave there are very helpful (and often include prices, whether a place is still operational etc).

To get around more easily we bought a local sim with an internet bundle. We had read that Safaricom was a good option but after trying several shops on the first day (most were closed because it was Easter Sunday) we found a shop that sold Airtel simcards. In the end this worked just fine, and we had good reception in most places (except in the middle of national parks). With Safaricom you can also use Mpesa, but we managed without it.

There are very few independent trip reports, so most birding info was collected by searching on eBird for gps-points and other clues combined with the tour reports of Birdquest and Rockjumper.

Travelling

We hired a 4WD through Roadtrip Africa (website www.roadtripafrica.com). We got a Toyota Hilux with a canopy on the back for storage which was perfect for the trip. Only in a few places we needed to use the 4WD gear where there were some muddy areas in parks after rain. But given the unpredictability of the weather and the number of unpaved roads in Kenya a good 4WD is an absolute must. We had bad luck at the end of the trip when our car broke down (the suspension had broken - probably after a lifetime of bumping on roads because it was not at a particularly bad road when it happened and luckily still within cellphone reception). After calling with the company, they sent 3 mechanics from Nairobi with spare parts and a welding machine. They arrive in the evening and around 1am the car was fixed and were able to continue our journey the next morning.

In general the roads were ok but slow. The highway from Nairobi to Mombasa is good asphalt but there are so many trucks on the road that you are constantly slowed down. In this stretch we barely got an average of 50 km/h, which is probably a good rule of thumb for general driving on asphalt in Kenya (except the almost empty road between Archers Post and Marsabit that was very quick). For unpaved road the average speed was lower and often more around 30km/h. Inside National Parks the speed limit also is 30km/h.

Eating & Sleeping

We brought our own camping gear which was convenient at several sites (in the end we camped 50% of the trip). This also helped in keeping the costs down, especially in the National Parks (although camping is still very expensive, see section below on costs). In most parks there are 2 types of campsites; Public and Special campsites. It turned out that (at least during the low season) only the Public campsites were open. The special ones require a guard that accompanies you and come higher cost. Camping in the parks was different than in South Africa where most campsites are fenced. In all places we pitched our tent wild animals could enter the site so important to stay cautious (the first night in Tsavo East we found an Elephant with the thermal scope in the edge of the campsite, and when we had just lied down a lion roared close by).

We did not book any accommodation upfront (except from the hotel the first night we arrived in Nairobi), which gave ultimate flexibility during the trip to adjust our itinerary as we went along. Given that it was the low season for tourism it was never busy and we were always able to find a place to sleep.

Food is ok but not very special. Ordering in restaurants can sometimes take 1-2 hours before the food arrives. In a couple of places, we found a buffet style restaurant which was very convenient (especially for lunch if you do not want to waste any birding time).

Weather

April/May should be the height of the long rains but the rains were just starting during our trip (parts green Tsavo, Samburu getting green, first rains Aberdares). We didn't lose any birding time due to rain, but it is a risk, also some roads in parks can get unpassable. The nice thing about the green season is that widowbirds are displaying, and Friedmans lark was singing.

Health and safety

We didn't have any health issues, took antimalarials but hardly saw any mosquitos during the trip. The north and especially the area around Somalia is somewhat unsafe – Road trip Africa didn't allow driving north of Malindi because of this (so we flew to Manda and were not able to go for Violet-breasted Sunbird). Collared Lark is out of bounds for similar reasons (see budgetbirders.com). The Marsabit-area is also somewhat greyish, shortly after our visit the government declared a curfew and started a campaign to reduce weapons in the area. There have been clashes between tribes and banditry in the past. The road between Marsabit and Kalacha wasn't busy but had regular traffic and we never felt unsafe.

Money

To pay the park entrance we mostly paid by credit card (only paid cash for Shaba/Samburu). The paying system Mpesa is very widely used, we planned on trying it as well but didn't in the end, and didn't really miss it. ATMs are widely available throughout the country, we mainly used KCB which were reliable and quick. At the time of our travel the exchange rate was about 1 euro = 120 Kenyan Shilling.

Costs

Most of the parks are managed by KWS (Kenya Wildlife Service) and have a fixed price list that can also be found online. Most park entries were 52 usd pp for non-residents (some 70) and camping was between 20-60 usd. The prices for residents are a lot cheaper (about 10%). The prices for camping inside the park also felt a bit steep given that most of the time there was no guard and only very basic amenities. But given that the only option to sleep in the parks other camping was staying in very expensive lodges (often 300-500 dollar per night) camping was the better option. In total we spent the following for our 3-week trip:

- Direct flight Amsterdam – Nairobi with KLM: 671 euro pp
- Flight Malindi - Manda: 97 euro pp
- Car rental for 22 days through Roadtrip Africa: 2668 euro total
- Other expenses (Parks entries, hotels, food, gas etc): 1800 euro pp

Visited Sites

The GPS-points mentioned below can be found (and downloaded) on the link below.

<https://www.google.nl/maps/d/edit?mid=1795zzcoJhCO8cA-51FSq-uwWeEP8pOE&usp=sharing>. In preparation for the trip we gathered quite a few GPS-locations of specific species from eBird and Observado.org, email us if you are interested in the file.

Tsavo East & West

Logistics

We visit Tsavo on 3 separate visits:

- Tsavo East visit 1 (one afternoon and the next morning in Tsavo East - birding from west to east): On our first day of the trip we arrived at Tsavo East around 3pm and entered through the Manyani gate at -3.08145, 38.49232. We paid 52dollar entry per person and 20 dollar for staying at the Ndololo Public Campsite at -3.36099, 38.64591. There were several spots taken at the camping but still plenty of room for us to choose a nice corner and pitch our tent (it turned out that this was the busiest campsite of the entire trip, on later campsites we were often the only ones). Most people visit Tsavo East by staying in one of the several very expensive lodges inside the park or cheaper accommodation in Voi just outside the park. For birding camping is very convenient since you sleep right at the birding site. However there are very few campsites in Tsavo East and it seemed that (at least during our visit) only the public campsites were operational (probably since the special campsites require upfront reservation and a guard that accompanies you?)
- Tsavo East visit 2 (one morning on the way back from Malindi birding east to west). When our flight back from Manda Island landed around 4pm we started driving and arrived at dusk at the Sala gate (most eastern gate) and since there is no public camping in the area (no campsites close in the park and not outside the park) we asked the guards of the gate whether if we could pitch our tent next to the gate building and use the toilet that is there. They negotiate a bit and in the end we pay 1500 Sh for the night. For us a perfect solution since we could enter the park at first light the next morning to start birding.
- Tsavo West (after Taita Hills – a full afternoon and the next morning: We camped at the Chyulu Campsite at -2.90125, 38.03835 (we were the only guests there).

Birding

Tsavo East and West are different in habitat and therefore offer different species. Tsavo East is more open with grasslands where Tsavo West has higher vegetation (bushes, low trees). And for both sides the rainfall is the biggest factor for bird activity. This can be super locally depending on where a big rain has fallen. During our visit there were corners that were lush and green - especially around Manyani gate and the southside of the Maktau gate towards lake Jipe. And around the Sala Gate in Tsavo east the land was barren dry and had almost no activity. Since you are not allowed to leave your car we did most birding by slowly driving with the windows open and when there was activity we would stop the car. This worked well, although it can be frustrating sometimes when a smaller birds hops to the back of the bush and you never see it again and are not allowed to go after it.

Target birds

Rob had been in Ethiopia before but for Helen most East Africa savannah species were still new. This resulted in a staggering target list of over 100 species for Tsavo when we started the trip, many of which turned out to be common and we encountered over several days and places. The main highlights:

- Tsavo Sunbird: one seen on the first afternoon at -3.1086, 38.5073 and 3 birds on the last day in Tsavo west at -2.7593, 38.1398
- Golden Pipit: mainly seen on the first afternoon at the Manyani gate. First bird at -3.1132, 38.5088 but in total we saw around 12 birds in those first few hours. The bright yellow males fly like butterflies, very cool.
- Friedmann's Lark: Seen south of Maktau at -3.4834, 38.0457 where the grass was lush and green. We heard the bird singing from the driving car in the middle of the day.
- Hartlaub Bustard: all seen in Tsavo West at -3.4972, 38.02259 and -3.5855, 37.8739 and -2.9413, 38.0396
- Taveta weaver: Since we were already south of Maktau searching for Friedmann's Lark we decided to drive to Lake Jipe for a Taveta weaver twitch. This worked and at -3.6142, 37.7761 we found a very active colony.

Heuglin's Bustard and Fire-fronted Bishop are sometimes seen here but we missed these (especially Fire-fronted Bishop is erratic and dependent on recent rain falls that lead to seeding grasses). We found Heuglin's Bustard later in the trip along the Marsabit/Kalacha road.

Arabuko Sokoke Forest

Logistics

We stayed in Watamu for 3 nights. There is a lot of accommodation here, especially along the coast. We stay at A rocha Eco Lodge & Conservation Center (-3.37811, 39.98885). We payed 7500 sh per night for a nice room and including dinner (very tasty) and packed breakfast. From here it is a 20min drive to the entrance of the Arabuko Sokoke forest HQ station (-3.30165, 39.99651). It is mandatory to visit the forest with a guide and some weeks before our trip we contact Willy Kombe through whatsapp (tel +254 723314416). He has been a guide here for many years, is very sharp and knows where to find the targets. He asks the standard guiding fee 6000 Sh p full day + we pay 1400 Sh pp entrance (prices are listed at the HQ station where we paid our fees).

Birding

There are 3 big targets in the Arabuko Sokoke Forest: Clarke's Weaver, Sokoke Pipit and Sokoke Scops-Owl and based on the trip reports we had read beforehand these can all be tricky to find. As often happens with lowlands forests; activity can be unpredictable, and you need some luck.

We spent 2 days exploring the forest with Willy and hit the jackpot on day one in a stretch of Miombo forest that was just starting to get green because of the recent rains: Within 10 minutes of parking the car in the early morning we were chasing a pair of Sokoke Pipits that moved very quietly through the forest (-3.3219, 39.9032).

Happy with the first big target in the bag we got back to the sandy track and we had not walked another 100m when a flock came through and one of the first birds that popped up was a male Clark's Weaver (-3.3209, 39.8995). The bird moved along quickly and mostly hidden in the canopy, but still very rewarding to see this very rare bird. (It is only known from the Arabuko-Sokoke forest, and recently from the nearby Dakatcha woodlands where they discovered the breeding site in 2013 that had previously been unknown).

Target number 3; the Sokoke Scops-Owl was seen that afternoon. This time no chase but we had to wait patiently for Willy to track down a roosting pair (-3.2670, 39.9257). Although being led to a roosting site is less of an adventure, the birds made up for that with their cool plumage. On the way to the Scops-Owls we had Malindi Pipit at the known stake-out (-3.2630, 39.9769).

On day 2 we realized how lucky we had been; the activity was very low and driving and walking for endless hours did only produce a handful of birds. But that's the deal with lowland forest; activity can be super unpredictable. In hindsight we could have spent another day here since there are a lot more birds to be found but we decided to proceed to the next place.

Target birds

Clarke's Weaver, Sokoke Pipit, Sokoke Scops-Owl, Malindi Pipit (easily found in the fields near the 'Elephant Swamp' - 3.26302, 39.97674). We had great difficulties in seeing East Coast Akalat (tried lots of sites and only Helen saw a glimpse. We dipped African Barred Owlet, Fischer's Turaco and Rob missed Lowland Tiny Greenbul so another day would have added a few species.

Sabaki river mouth

On our first afternoon in Watamu we arrived around mid-day. We had lunch at A Rocha and then drove to the Sabaki River mouth for some hours of coastal birding. At the turn-off (at -3.14675, 40.1269) it turned out there is a small conservation station and some men approach us that we need to take a guide with us. This turned out to be helpful in helping us navigate to the right places. We paid a little entrance fee and a young enthusiastic guide named Japhet got in our car. We drove the track towards the coast and parked the car at -3.1596, 40.14665. From there we crossed the dunes and walked towards the river mouth. It is high tide which means most of the birds are far, but scanning with the telescope from -3.1649, 40.1456 we added a nice selection of gulls, terns and waders to the list (African Skimmer is sometimes seen here but not today). We walked back to the car and the last hour we spent on the opposite side of the track birding the coastal scrubs.

Target birds

Sooty Gull, Zanzibar Red Bishop, Scaly Babbler, Coastal Cisticola

Manda Island

Logistics

We flew to Manda from Malindi with Safarilink Aviation. In previous years some birders and tours also drove from Malindi to Manda but given the safety issues north of Malindi we were advised against it (and the rental company did not allow it). The flight is only 20min from Malindi to Manda island and since there are multiple flights per day we chose to do the round-trip on one day: arriving at Manda island at 08:55 and flying back at 15:35. This gave more than enough time to find all the birds and we spent the last few hours (in the heat of the day) in the cool shades of the airport with a cold drink. From our guide Willy at Sokoke forest we received the contact details of a bird guide on Manda named Jumaa, tel 0729231316. In the end we decided to search for the birds ourselves but for those wanting a guide this would be a good option.

Birding

We walked out the airport and turned left along the dirt road that follows the fence of the airstrip and directly found the first birds at -2.2573, 40.9139, including the first 2 Black Boubous but also some other nice coastal species such as Brown-tailed Apalis and Golden Palm Weaver. We walked and birded along the dirt road for a while, where the clouded skies help in the temperature and bird activity. When we are back at the airport around 12:30 we have seen a nice long bird of species, but now it has become very hot so good to spend the rest of the time in the shade.

Target birds

Black Boubou; the main target on Manda island and easily found next to the airport. According to ebird Violet-breasted Sunbird is sometimes seen on Manda as well (?) (and by flying you miss the best stakeout for this species along the B8 highway). The dark sunbird we found turned out to be a Purple-banded Sunbird which looks very similar.

Taita Hills

Logistics

We spent the night at the Taita Rocks hotel (at -3.4104, 38.3632, rate was 3500 per night for a room without food) but they have a nice restaurant on side overlooking the garden where we eat lunch and dinner. The village is around 1500m altitude which results in very nice temperature. From the hotel it is a 20-25min ride to the forest where the birding starts (go left at -3.4045, 38.3621), start climbing and follow the main road up, turn sharp right at -3.3814, 38.3412 and then turn left onto the steep dirt track at -3.3785, 38.3468).

The Ngangao Forest that is accessible for birders is a small patch and seems to be under a lot of pressure with people living on all sides and entering the forest for wood. Some conservation and protection seem to be happening from the community. We met Jonam (tel 0711767242) on the way out. We didn't have his contacts and had expected that he would find us, since people around the forest inform him of any visitors. It turned out he attended a wedding the day before. He knows the forest and birds very well and told us that there are only 4(!) territories left of Taita Apalis and they are declining rapidly. He asked 700 pp entrance, 2500 regular guiding fee.

Birding

On the first afternoon we drive up around 2pm and park the car at the north side of the forest where the road enters the forest -3.35262, 38.33694. The forest consists of a network of small trails that we randomly followed while navigating on our phone to some gps points that we had collected previously. The Taita Apalis favours the openings in the forest, and we check several of these openings without any luck. It is very quiet in the first hours and we only saw a couple of birds such as Placid and Stripe-faced Greenbuls. In the last hour the activity improved, and we were happy when we found a Taita Thrush foraging in a tree at -3.3600, 38.3442 and several Taita White-eyes in a flock at -3.3532, 38.3393. Driving back we stop at the spot for Striped Pipit but without success. The next morning we drove back to the same spot in the morning at 7AM and had more luck; we found 2 Striped Pipits at -3.3750, 38.3409. Again we drove up to the forest and this time parked a bit further along the track at the school -3.35267, 38.3419. From here we followed the same small track into the forest that we found yesterday. We found a very promising looking clearing at -3.3548, 38.3420 where we some time scanning all the vines and little movements in the canopy. The strategy worked; within 30min we had brief views of a female Taita Apalis in the far back of the canopy. We waited another hour and got better views of a pair Taita Apalis that forages closer at mid-elevation in the tangles. At 9:45 we drove off towards Tsavo West.

Target birds

Taita Apalis, Taita White-eye, Taita Thrush are the main targets, but also the only place of the trip for Striped Pipit and Stripe-faced Greenbul.

Thika area (en route from Nairobi to Mt Kenya)

Logistics

It's a long drive from Tsavo West to Mount Kenya, so we made a stopover at Thika. We slept at the Blue Post Hotel next to the highway (double room for 3500) with a restaurant on side and big gardens (with view of waterfall).

Birding

In the last bit of daylight when we arrived, we made a stop for Hinde's Babbler and Northern Pied Babbler (at -0.9921, 37.0764). The next morning we walked out at 05:45 and bird the gardens around the hotel and after that the dirt track on the opposite side of the river (start at -1.02278, 37.06884). Best species for this morning is Grey Olive Greenbul that we found at -1.0287, 37.0768.

Target birds

Hinde's Babbler, Northern Pied Babbler, Grey-olive Greenbul

Mt Kenya – Castle lodge

Logistics

We arrived around 11am at the gate of the Castle Forest at -0.40868, 37.31146. After driving up to the Castle lodge we arrange that we can set up our tent in the camping area (-0.3797, 37.3103) and reserve for dinner that night. For camping and dinner (3 courses) we pay around 6000 Sh.

Birding

In the heat of the day we start walking further up along the track to the lookout point we had for Abbott's Starling (at -0.36724, 37.31082). Not much activity here, we walked a bit further and at -0.36291, 37.31339 we turned around and walk back again. There are some fresh piles of Elephant dung on the track reminding us that even though we are at higher elevations we still need to be careful about animal encounters. We walked back down and further down the road towards the bridge. At -0.39704, 37.30919 there was a very active fruiting tree with groups of Starlings flying in and out - mostly Waller's and a few Kenrick's but no Abbott's. Around 5.30pm we walked the last bit towards the bridge (-0.3987, 37.3086) when we heard the call of the Olive Ibis when we were just around the corner from the bridge. Shit, are we just too late? We waited at the bridge while dusk settles in. At 6:35pm the Ibises call again outside of view but 2 minutes later 2 birds fly past.

The next morning we are outside at 05:45 and start the day by scanning from the big open grass area next to the castle. Groups of Red-fronted Parrots fly by but unfortunately no Starlings. We drove up again to the lookout. There is a lot more activity now but again no Abbott Starling. At 8.15 we drive back to the lodge to photograph some Sunbirds in the flowering trees next to the castle (Tacazze is a regular visitor and also both Northern and Eastern Double collared Sunbirds next to each other). The final stop is at the bridge where we scanned for a while and also walked up again to the fruiting tree. A big flock in the roadside gives some nice final birding but we give up on the Abbotts Starling when we drive out at 10am (it is still a long drive to Shaba).

Target birds

Olive Ibis, Abbott's Starling (missed)

Shaba, Samburu, Buffalo Springs NR

Logistics

The parks of Shaba, Samburu and Buffalo Springs NR are all very close to each other and with an entry ticket you can go from one to the other. Coming from Mount Kenya we arrived around 3pm at the Shaba NR gate (0.64519, 37.70943) and paid 70 dollar pp for entry and 30pp for camping. There is no public camping inside the park so we arrange with the gate guards that we can pitch our tent at the gate and use the toilet there. We bird the last hours in the afternoon and the next morning again in Shaba before we drive onto Marsabit. On the way back from Marsabit we enter Samburu NR and sleep at the Samburu public campsite at 0.56705, 37.53542, a nice area next to the river. The last morning we bird Samburu a bit more, then do some final birding in Buffalo Springs (the bridge over the river is broken so this means first going back to Archers Post and then entering Buffalo Springs through the gate at 0.6066, 37.6695).

Birding

Again we encountered a very wide range of activity, where some parts of the parks have had their first rainfall and are lush and active and others parts are mostly dry and quiet. The species here overlap to a large extent with Tsavo East and West and we see many nice birds that were new only a week ago. We spent the first afternoon in Shaba and the next early morning on finding the William's Lark (see below) and spent the rest of the visit in Shaba, Samburu and Buffalo Springs by just randomly driving around and seeing what we find.

Target birds

- William's Lark: this lark is not particularly handsome, but it has a very tiny range and only lives on lava fields. Shaba is the best place to find it where the track crosses a big lava field at 0.65918, 37.86344. We tried to get there on our first afternoon but due to a heavy rain an hour earlier the last few kilometer before the lava field had turned into one big slippery plain. This is an area with fine sand/mud and on googlemaps you see that many different tracks go through this bit (0.65777, 37.85099). We did not want to get stuck and with a car covered in mud (even up on the roof) we turned around. Back at the gate the guards offered us that one of them would accompany us the next morning. Next to knowing the tracks this also had the advantage that with an armed guard you are allowed to go out of your car at the lava fields and walk around (we pay 4000Sh). This turned out to be very helpful; when we get to lava fields we see a 'suspect' lark fly very far and after that it takes 2 hours of walking and searching in the heat before we find a Williams Lark that shows well at 0.6586, 37.8755.
- Donaldson Smith's Sparrow-weaver: Also localized but very common in both Shaba and Samburu
- White-headed Mousebird: Found at 0.5708, 37.5083 and at 0.5926, 37.4892
- Somali bee-eater: scarce bee-eater that we only see once at Samburu and once while driving back from Marsabit.

Fire-fronted Bishop is sometimes seen here but we dipped it.

Marsabit/Kalacha

Logistics

One of the highlights of our Kenya trip was driving into the Dida Galgalu Desert in the north of the country. The 130km road between the town of Marsabit and the small village Kalacha goes through a barren landscape of black lava rocks and parts of endless sand desert. The good news of visiting this remote place is that the highway from Archer's Post to Marsabit has been upgraded in recent years and is a very quick and smooth drive (most parts we could drive 100km/h which is exceptional in Kenya). The road from Marsabit to Kalacha is now also being upgraded (they started at the Marsabit end) which looks like a very big project with Chinese construction companies involved. So wants that new road is in place you can get to the birds even quicker. During our visit the Kalacha road was still mostly dirt track but in good shape. We left Marsabit around 1pm and drove/birded the rest of the afternoon, arriving in Kalacha at dusk. We stayed at "Kalacha Highway Villa" at 3.1333, 37.4281 where we spent the night in a simple room for 800S and had a nice meal (300S pp) + cold beer (250S pp). Not too bad in the middle of the desert. Most species can be seen along the asphalt road north of Marsabit as well based on eBird.

Birding

Birding is mostly done around last part of the road, between where the roads splits at 3.13966, 37.59464 and the village of Kalacha. The first rains were arriving as we were there, which meant that the ground was still very dry and absent of any green. On the first afternoon there was a very hot strong wind which made birding almost impossible since you could not hear any birds sounds. The next morning conditions were a lot better, and we were very lucky with a Heuglin's Bustards at 6.50am that walked on the side of the road at 3.1589, 37.4736. A bit further we stopped at 3.1717, 37.5129 and while walking around we had several Masked Larks flying by giving reasonable views but we did not manage to see a bird on the ground. Fortunately, that moment came at later at 3.1397, 37.5951 where we had several birds feeding on the ground giving fantastic views.

A bonus during our visit in the desert were the migrants that came down because of the weather; with European Honey Buzzards and Collared Pratincoles on their way north flying low across the desert, Red-backed Shrikes in some low bushes and Willow Warblers sheltering in a lonely acacia tree. Very cool to get a glimpse of the impressive migration efforts of "our own" European birds.

Target birds

- Heuglin's Bustard: you probably need some luck. We did a lot of driving and scanning finding several Kori Bustards but only one Heuglin's.

- Masked Lark: We made some random stops but found the Masked Larks at the same spots that Gallardy had also seen them. With more rains/food they might be even more common?
- Somali Sparrow: easy in the garden in Kalacha

We also tried for Star-spotted Nightjar around Kalacha (night drive both in the evening and the next morning) since Ross and Melissa had seen several on the road a year before but we did not have any luck. The very light rain / close thunderstorm didn't help probably.

Birding en route from Shaba to Aberdares/ Baringo

- Boran Cisticola: We make a short roadside stop for Boran Cisticola (0.13516, 37.46442) while driving towards Shaba. Although it is the middle of the day a bird responded quickly and gave nice views.

- Naro Moru to Solio Road: This road starts at Naro Moru and goes South West towards the Solio Ranch. From the road we scanned the grassland on both sides for some high-altitude grassland birds - for example Jackson's Widowbird is sometimes seen here when conditions are right (clearly when we were here it was still too dry we didn't see too much).

- Cape Eagle-owl: Between Naro Moru and Nyahururu we make a stop for Cape Eagle-Owl. Next to the road (at -0.188, 36.79999) you can look onto a cliff side where there are obvious shit marks but during our visit no birds were present. We ran into a local guide/ researcher named Paul (tel 0722484076) who took us to another cliff a bit further where we got very good views of a roosting Cape Eagle-Owl. We also saw our first Golden-winged Sunbird here and in hindsight we found out that often Little Rock-thrush is seen here.

- Lynes's Cisticola: This species prefers a very distinct habitat of dry gorges. Thanks to info from Ross Gallardy we went to a stake-out along the way towards Baringo and although it was in the middle of the day we had quickly found a responding bird at -0.2246,36.0229.

Aberdares

Logistics

The Aberdares is a mountain ranges that stretches mainly north to south. Several parts are separately accessible from different directions. Entrance for foreigners is 52dollar per person + a small car fee. We made 2 visits into the Aberdares in different moment of our trip (not all targets are possible in one place: north is place for Elgon Francolin and Scarlet-tufted Sunbird, the south-westside has Aberdare Cisticola):

1. Our first entrance was from the north side (in between driving from Shaba to Lake Baringo): We slept at Lalanasi Lodge and tented camp (situated 7km along a dirt track from the main road at -0.0295, 36.5808 that we found on booking.com). The next morning we took the turn off to the Aberdares at -0.0775,36.5513) to the Shamata Gate (-0.20395, 36.52879). The gate is signposted for most of the way which was helpful since Maps.me tried to take various (impossible) shortcuts.
2. A second visit on the South West side later on through the Mutubio Gate (at -0.52504, 36.6638). The previous day our car had broken down driving up. Luckily we were close by Camp Kipipiri (-0.49347, 36.61542) where we pitched our tent and waited for the mechanics to fix our car (with a super helpful owner that was very good company). The next morning we could proceed up the mountain.

Birding north side (Shamata Gate):

The drive into the park is stunningly beautiful with the road curving through an ancient forest at 2500m altitude. Once the road is out of the forest and we drive into the high-altitude grasslands there are several Jackson's Francolins along the road. We park the car at -0.25085, 36.59194 and start walking the trail. Hunter's Cisticola and Moorland Chat are very common. And around -0.2617,36.5943 we see the first Scarlet-tufted Sunbird. Elgon Francolin is supposed to occur around here as well, but we have no luck (hard winds and bright sun from early on probably don't help).

Birding south west side (Mutubio Gate):

We left Camp Kipipiri at 7:30 in mist and drizzle. We made a stop along the way to try for Abyssinian Crimsonwing (a gps point from Ebird). We heard them responding but very far behind the Elephant fence and soon became quiet. We did see them on the way back at the same site -0.4876, 36.6299. Inside the park the weather cleared up a bit, and we parked the car at -0.47756, 36.72497. Aberdare Cisticola is very common around here. This was the final target here but because the landscape is so beautiful we hiked for a bit before we left towards Nairobi.

Target birds

Elgon Francolin (missed), Scarlet-tufted Sunbird, Aberdare Cisticola, Jacksons Francolin, Abyssinian Crimsonwing

Lake Baringo

Logistics

In recent years the water level of the lake has risen significantly, thereby flooding the lakeside accommodation that was once there. Higher up still a lot of accommodation is available and based on good reviews in the iOverlander app we decided to stay at the Bush baby camping & restaurant. Given the low season the restaurant was not open but the camping area is very nice. The owner also could arrange a boat trip for the next morning to search for the White-backed Night-heron (the name of our boat man is August and knows the places). We pay 9000 fsh or a 3h boat ride and 1800 for camping. (Ross Gallardy goes out with 2 guys named Louis and Francis that would have been our plan B had this not worked out - tel Louis: +254 0725103553 Francis +254 0723163267).

Birding

When we arrived at the camping a Jackson's Hornbill is sitting close by in the garden. After arranging the camping, we drove off and we quickly found a Hemprich's Hornbill at 0.6181,36.0106 (still new for Helen) and we birded a bit below the cliffs. Back towards the camping we were approached by a guy who asked us if we want to see an owl – it turns out to be a roosting Northern White-faced Owl (0.61064,36.0191) and he knows some more spots for roosting Slender-tailed Nightjars, Three-banded Courser and Spotted Eagle-Owl. In return for his help he asks a donation for the community (...) – we give him 2000 Sh. The next morning we start the boat trip at 6.30am and we first scanned the shore with some waterfowl before we cross the lake to a small island in the middle. The guide tells us he has seen 6 White-backed Night-herons here only 3 weeks ago but they seem to be gone (we do however have very nice views of a colony of Northern Masked Weavers, that have a tiny distribution range in Kenya). After 2,5h we do one final attempt at some low hanging bushes and there appears to be some movement deep inside the tangles. With some patience it turned out to be a White-backed Night-heron that is hidden deep inside, but we get some nice views.

Target birds

White-backed Night-heron, Jackson's Hornbill, Owls (Northern white-faced, eagle-owls, coursers)

Kerio valley (en route between Baringo and Kakamega): We made a short stop in the middle of the day at 0.47114, 35.69849. Our main target is Gambaga flycatcher which we find after almost an hour walking and birding around.

Kakamega forest

Logistics

We stayed at Rondo Retreat for 2 nights, located at 0.2272, 34.8846 (other option would be camping/simple rooms at the ranger station). We arrived late in the afternoon with heavy rain, and when we arrived at the gate there was a sign that due to Covid they only allowed guest with prior bookings, which we did not have. Luckily we were still let in, and were provided a very nice room. In total we paid 32000 Sh for two nights plus all meals (they serve an early breakfast for birdwatchers). We also arranged a guide through the Rondo Retreat (3000 Sh). His name was John and he knew the most important targets (such as the Blue-headed Bee-eater) but he did not know all the sounds/ birds. We still really enjoyed his company and when we found Yellow-bellied Wattle-eye after a long search he was at least as happy as we were. Separately we paid 1400 Sh for forest entry at the ranger station.

Birding

Kakamega forest forms the most eastern part of African lowland rain forest, thereby sharing more species with Uganda and further west. The 3 range-restricted targets here are Blue-headed Bee-eater, Turner's Eremomela and Sharpe's Drongo and next to that a very long list of forest species for which Kakamega is the only place to see them in Kenya. Since we had been to Uganda previously, we had a very selected list of targets that we focused on. We birded the forest mainly in three areas: Around the Rondo Retreat, around the bridge at 0.2121,34.9238 and behind the ranger station at 0.2372,34.8669.

Target birds

- Blue-headed Bee-eater: a pair seen very high up in the canopy behind the ranger station at 0.2431,34.8667
- Turner's Eremomela: 2 birds found in a flock along the road passed the bridge (0.2123,34.9258)
- Sharpe's Drongo: several seen on both days
- Southern Hyliota (isolated ssp): picked up by John on sound and then taped in at 0.2116, 34.9389
- Blue shouldered Robin-Chat: seen very well at 0.2398, 34.8662
- Scaly-breasted Illadopsis: very skulky but eventually seen well two times: at 0.2286,34.8838 and at 0.2234,34.8974
- Yellow-bellied Wattle-eye: one of the birds we really wanted to find (all Wattle-eyes are cool, but this one particularly). Eventually we found a pair at 0.2210,34.8885

Orange-tufted sunbird also was a target but we missed it. Since we mostly focused on our own new species there are many birds we did not see (and since the guide did not know many sounds, we easily missed out on a longer list of possibilities here).

Kisumu waterfront (en route between Kakamega and Maasai Mara)

Short stop for Papyrus Canary (also small chance for Papyrus Yellow-warbler and Highland Rush warbler but you need to take a boat ride for those) We arrived at 12:30 in the heat of the day and parked at -0.12623, 34.74225. We scanned around seeing some nice waterbirds (and Black-headed Gonoleks new for the trip). We did find the Papyrus Canary at -0.1254,34.7453 and after that we left again, since it's still a long drive to the Maasai Mara.

Maasai Mara

Logistics

We didn't plan on visiting the Maasai Mara initially. We did have it in the back of our head as an extension option, but we did not prepare this section very well. The whole Maasai Mara area is very huge, and several parts are separately accessible from different directions. Given the time we had we decided to spend our first night in the western part close to the Olololo Gate (-1.25844, 34.99768) since we came from Kakamega/Kisumu – then drive the next full day through the Mara Triangle, crossing the Mara river at -1.5463, 35.01896, ending that day at the Sekenani Gate (-1.5209,35.3374). The next morning we birded several stops outside the park en route towards Naivasha. The first night we slept at Mara West Lodge & campsite. Given the low season it turned out to be deserted except for a one guard. We arranged that we could set up our tent for 5000S. The second night we slept at Olderpoi Safari camp, a couple of km after the Sekenani gate. We payed 2000S pp for camping and another 2000S pp for diner.

Birding

On our first afternoon we birded along a forested valley in the Oololo escarpment up and down the road around -1.24022, 35.0044. We really were hoping for Schalow's Turaco only found Ross's Turaco. The next morning we birded there for a short while before we entered the park. Within the park we drove around see what we could find. Some highlights are a family of Coqui Francolins at -1.4358, 34.8816), a group of Grey-rumped Swallow and several Rosy-throated Longclaw (-1.5370, 35.0033). In the afternoon we try to drive some side trails that go through higher grass. Some were too wet and muddy to drive but in one track we flushed a Harlequin Quail (-1.5661,35.0749) and African Crake in the same area. Towards the end of the afternoon we found a large flock of seed-eating birds that included a few Cardinal Quelea (-1.5354,35.3104).

The next day we birded outside the park. First stop was some savannah habitat around Siana Springs, at the end of a 7km dirt road (farthest point we go is -1.5139,35.4171). We ran into a guard that says we can only bird here for one hour and will cost 50 dollars. We negotiate this down to 2 hours for 2000S which was enough time for us to do some birding. We picked up some new birds (our first Usambiro Barbets) and it was very birdy all around. (responding very well to Pearl-spotted Owlet.). On our way back north we made a few stops for Karamoja Apalis (see below).

Target birds

- Usambiro Barbet: very common, especially outside the park (first bit between Sekenani gate towards Naivasha)
- Karamoja Apalis: very localized species (east Uganda, Serengeti and this spot in Kenya). We made several stops along the road where the habitat looked good (Whistling thorn Acacia). First stop at -1.396,35.5206. It was very windy which made it difficult to find birds But in a final stop we found a responding Apalis at -1.40013,35.5488.
- Jackson's Widowbird: Very nice male in full display at -1.4981,35.2012

Also worth mentioning was Swahili Sparrow at lunch stop at -1.1671, 35.7455 (only of the trip)

Some targets that we missed in the Maasai Mara were Schalow's Turaco (trees along river that we did not visit), Rufous-bellied Heron, Black-backed Cisticola, Athi Short-toed Lark.

Naivasha lake

Logistics

This is one of the lakes in the Rift Valley. We arrived at Naivasha around 3pm. Naivasha lake is a very big lake with around it several smaller reserves/ private ground/ little parks/ hotels etc. This made it a bit harder to decide on a smart strategy to bird here, since everything has its own entrance and entrance fees. We visit 2 places: the Sanctuary Farm and the Crater Lake Sanctuary: In the end we decided to camp at the Sanctuary Farm because based on e-bird this looked like a good place for Grey-crested Helmetshrike. The entrance is t -0.79454, 36.42163 and we paid 500Sh pp entrance and 1000Sh pp for camping (there is a nice small campground in the middle of the area which is fenced due to the Hippos that walk around at night). In the end we missed the Helmetshrike and when we are at the Crater Lake Game Sanctuary the next day this turns out to be a lot nicer place – both for birding but also to sleep. So in hindsight we would have gone directly to the Crater Lake Sanctuary and bird and sleep there (located at -0.77365, 36.25761, entrance fee was 2100S pp)

Birding

We spent the last few hours and again the next morning walking around the Sanctuary Farm in search for the Grey-crested Helmetshrike. By then we had covered the whole area several times and apparently this Yellow Fever tree woodland is good for the Helmetshrike but it has very little activity overall so this made the search quite boring. We then moved on to the Crater Lake and birded both the crater itself as well as the nearby habitats. Around 10:30 we drove off towards Kinangop and the Aberdares.

Target birds

There are many birds to be found in this area but with a lot of overlap with places we birded earlier in the trip. Therefore we had very little targets left.

- Grey-crested Helmetshrike: We tried hard but missed, with an extensive search at the Sanctuary farm and later at a similar habitat next to the Crater Lake at -0.7704, 36.2686 (it is also possible at Nakuru but due to our car breaking down we never got there)
- Hildebrandt's Francolin: Apparently very common in the Crater Lake sanctuary. We heard several from the top of the crater rim but hard to see from there. We then walked a smaller track and quickly found a group of Francolins at -0.7811,36.2575
- Little Rock Thrush: a nice bonus on the rocky edge of the Crater Lake at -0.7834,36.2589

- Lynes's Cisticola: Based on ebird we had found a good stake-out at -0.6505,36.3339. Since we had already seen it earlier we did not stop but when we drove passed the habitat looked perfect (dry scrubby gorge).

Kinangop plateau

Logistics

The plateau lies between the rift valley and the Aberdares and around -0.5738, 36.49159 there is a bit of natural grassland habitat left which is one of the best places to see Sharpe's Longclaw. Before the trip we had read of conservation efforts in this area to save the Sharpe's Longclaw but we did not encounter anyone, not even a sign,

Birding

We arrived at 12:30 – not the best moment for birds but we tried anyways. There was a Long-tailed Widowbird displaying above the grass a bit further and we walked around the big grass pollen. After a first round we moved the car and parked at the upper part along a small road (around here -0.57461, 36.49537). From there it did not take long before we found a beautiful pair of Sharpe's Longclaw at -0.5752,36.4942

Target birds

Sharpe's Longclaw, Jackson Widowbird, Golden-winged Sunbird also occur here (but we did not see it)

Nairobi NP

Logistics

A large NP in Nairobi NP with several gates very easy accessible from Nairobi. We slept at Wildebeest Ecocamp (9000Sh) which had a nice garden and restaurant. The next morning we drove the short distance to the Nairobi NP main gate at -1.3368, 36.7799. We paid 52dollar entry per person. Since it was a Sunday the park was busy with locals but once you moved away from the gates it was not too busy to bird. At the end of the day we exited the park through the East gate -1.3385, 36.8652 and drove from there to the airport where we handed in our car at 6:30pm. Very nice to end your final day of trip with so much cool birding next to the airport.

Birding

We drove around the entire day, and although the activity dropped during the hottest hours we kept seeing birds (and mammals). Some highlights were Shelley's Francolin walking on the road, several Rosy-throated Longclaws, several Kori Bustards (including displaying and an adult with 2 young), displaying Jackson's Widowbirds, both Spotted and Water Thick-knee etc.

Target birds

- Jackson Widowbird: several displaying males around -1.3544, 36.8339
- Cuckoo-finch: 3 birds feeding on the track at -1.3540,36.8311
- Red-Throated Tit: in big tree on picnic area at -1.3822, 36.7859
- White-tailed Lark: 2 birds singing and displaying high up at -1.3862,36.8945
- Highland Rush warbler (outside park): we had tried for this bird at several places, but we finally found two responding birds thanks to ebird at -1.3306, 36. 7156). This is a pond next to a shopping mall which was en route towards Nairobi NP, nice place to pick up a lifer .

African Rail is regularly seen in Nairobi NP at -1.3508, 36.7987 but we did not have the luck.

ANNOTATED SPECIES LIST

We have tried to accurately indicate the proper subspecies for all our observations, usually based on geographic locations based on the IOC World Bird List version 12.1. We tried to keep detailed notes throughout the trip but especially commoner species were not written down daily.
